HEALTHCARE & WELLNESS

Colorado continues its run as one of the healthiest states in the U.S.
Often called a “center of influence,” the Metro Denver EDC was the nation’s first regional economic development organization. From Castle Rock to Fort Collins and Golden to Greeley, we represent the nine counties and 66 communities that contribute to our resilient economy and incredible culture. All told, the EDC’s service territory makes up two-thirds of the Colorado GDP and approximately three-quarters of the state’s population.

Thanks to the leadership and generosity of 250 of Colorado’s most influential companies, the EDC works to monitor and advance the Metro Denver economy through corporate attraction and retention; workforce development; domestic and global marketing; investments in infrastructure; and public policy that fosters a pro-business climate.

The data we produce is foundational to the work we do. Publications like our annual Industry Cluster Studies offer the companies we court (as well as the regional partners we support) a deeper understanding of what’s happening across Metro Denver, and for certain industries, the state more broadly. We track this data closely – leveraging the intel and insights to not only drive corporate recruitment and investment, but foster competition, build a culture of impact and innovation, strengthen the business community and work to ensure that life and work in Metro Denver are thriving.

Industry Overview

The Healthcare & Wellness Cluster is a significant contributor to the Metro Denver economy. Companies in the region’s broader healthcare industry contribute nearly $16 billion in Gross Domestic Product (GDP) to the region’s economy, or about 6% of the total GDP in the region. After 16 years of consecutive employment growth, the cluster lost almost 6,100 jobs between 2019 and 2020, highlighting the volatility of the economy during the COVID-19 pandemic, even in healthcare. The Healthcare & Wellness Cluster includes a dynamic and growing group of companies that provide preventive, curative, and rehabilitative services. Extending beyond healthcare delivery, the cluster represents a variety of businesses ranging from the outdoor recreation sector to companies that focus on mental health, social well-being and disease prevention.

Companies that manufacture ophthalmic goods, sports and athletic equipment and outerwear are also a part of healthcare and wellness. Finally, the cluster includes government agencies engaged in the planning, administration and coordination of public health programs and services. The Healthcare & Wellness Cluster consists of 52, six-digit North American Industry Classification System (NAICS) codes. This definition allows for a comparative analysis of the Metro Denver and Northern Colorado region’s cluster relative to other metropolitan regions through the United States.

Notes: The number of available applicants is a point-in-time measurement of the number of people who have registered in Colorado’s workforce development system’s statewide database, Connecting Colorado, as being able and available to work in a particular occupation. Results should be interpreted with caution since registration in Connecting Colorado is self-reported. In addition, the skills rubric may assign up to four occupation codes for each registrant. Therefore, the number of available applicants could be inflated.
